ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

To provide a system for processing program information in which the display structure of a program table can be ~~be~~ freely ~~be~~ changed in accordance with a requirement of or ~~a~~ the taste of an audience, the system for processing program information is ~~constructed~~ structured to include program information storage means 1 for storing program information, and program table display means 4 for two-dimensionally displaying a program table ~~following~~ employing as the two axes, ~~in accordance with~~ two attributes 102 and 103 selected from among all of the attributes that have been given to each piece of program information, to make the program table 101 ~~for two-dimensionally displaying programs with two axes of free attributes~~. For the audience, program tables of various constructions can be displayed on the display means at will and in respective program retrieval operations, ~~the~~ a program table that is easy to ~~look~~ use to search for a program can be obtained. An ~~objective~~ specific desired program can be found in a short time by ~~coming up with ideas~~ selecting key word(s) related to each program and extracting them from ~~for the extraction of~~ the program or the like. ~~T, and~~ this is useful for an audience member to make a plan of desired broadcasts for ~~making a broadcast view plan of~~ himself.